

Roundtable - Neurodivergence and biopsychosocial health

Neurodivergent panelists and allies will lead an informal Q&A discussion about the merits of the neurodiversity paradigm and its consequences for research into biopsychosocial health. Topics for discussion include ethical conduct and implications of biomedical research with neurodivergent groups, ethnic diversity and inequalities in current neurodiversity research, and future directions of neurodiversity research in psychosomatic medicine. The audience is welcome to participate in the discussion.

Facilitators: Dr Paige Green, Dr Mary Doherty, Dr Jessica Eccles, Dr Lisa Quadt
